

Business Ethics Policy statement of intent

The Professional Guard Services Ltd believes that it is important for the Professional Guard Services Ltd and its employees to maintain high ethical standards to preserve its reputation in the marketplace.

Good ethics are important to ensure that the Professional Guard Services Ltd meets not only its objectives in a fair and equitable manner but its wider social responsibilities externally. In addition, the Professional Guard Services Ltd is committed to ensuring high ethical standards within the workplace.

The procedure that follows provides general guidance on ethics and refers to other policies of the Professional Guard Services Ltd where necessary. The procedure will be closely monitored and will be developed as necessary to ensure that it meets the needs of the Professional Guard Services Ltd, its employees and its stakeholders.

We will ensure that the Professional Guard Services Ltd is meeting its aims about social impact and ethical behavior and that its stakeholders perceive the Professional Guard Services Ltd in a positive light.

Procedure:

1. All employees will be provided with ethics training as part of the induction program. Ongoing ethics training, as the ethics policy and procedure develops, will be cascaded to employees via management.
2. All employees are required to adhere to the Professional Guard Services Ltd.'s policy and procedure on business ethics. Employees who breach the Professional Guard Services Ltd.'s policy on business ethics will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.
3. Employees who are faced with a potential breach of the business ethics code or have doubts about an ethical choice they are facing should, in the first instance speak to their line manager.
4. The Professional Guard Services Ltd has a Code of Conduct which employees are expected to abide by. A copy of the Code of Conduct and other policies relevant to this procedure are available on in the Staff Handbook
5. The following areas are included in this procedure. However, this list is not exhaustive and will be developed as required:
 - a) Data protection/Access to employee data.
 - b) Whistleblowing.
 - c) The giving and receiving of gifts.
 - d) Confidentiality.
 - e) Relationships with competitors, suppliers, advertisers, etc.
 - f) Equal opportunities, discrimination, and harassment.
 - g) Moonlighting.
 - h) The environment.
6. The Data Protection Act 1998 requires that eight data protection principles be followed. These data protection principles are set out in the Professional Guard Services Ltd.'s Data Protection/Access to Employee Data policy and all employees are expected to familiarize themselves with its requirements. Employees should ensure that they understand how data protection impacts on their role, regarding external suppliers and customers.
Employees who have any questions on the Professional Guard Services Ltd.'s Data Protection/Access to Employee Data policy should speak to their manager in the first instance.
7. The Professional Guard Services Ltd encourages a free and open culture in its dealings between its officers, employees and all people with whom it engages in business and legal relations. The Professional Guard Services Ltd recognizes that effective and honest communication is essential if malpractice is to be effectively dealt with and the Professional Guard Services Ltd's success ensured.
8. The Professional Guard Services Ltd does not believe that the giving and receiving of gifts from suppliers and customers is appropriate. In certain circumstances gifts may constitute a bribe. An

Find Us at:

www.pgssecurityfm.co.uk
info@pgssecurityfm.co.uk

Contact Us at:

(+44) 333-240-6307

Located At:

Challenge House Business Center
616 Mitcham Road, Croydon CR0 3AA

Professional Guard Services & Facilities Management - Registered #13757656

employee who receives a gift from a customer or supplier, regardless of its value, must inform his or her manager who will decide whether the gift may be kept by the employee or whether it should be returned.

9. A confidentiality clause forms part of all employees' statement of particulars/contracts of employment. During the course of employment employees will have access to information of a confidential and sensitive nature. Employees must not disclose to a third party any Professional Guard Services Ltd confidential information, either during their employment or after their employment has ended. Confidential information includes information on the Professional Guard Services Ltd's present or potential customers or suppliers and any information relating to the Professional Guard Services Ltd's business, including marketing, corporate or financial plans.

10. The Professional Guard Services Ltd recognizes that work may result in friendships and closer relationships developing. Relationships may develop not only with colleagues but suppliers and customers. It is natural for relationships to develop in a working environment. While the Professional Guard Services Ltd has every respect for the privacy of its employees, it asks that all employees consider the impact that personal relationships can have on the Professional Guard Services Ltd.

11. The Professional Guard Services Ltd is committed to equality of opportunity and diversity in the workplace. It is the Professional Guard Services Ltd's policy to treat all job applicants and employees fairly and equally, regardless of their sex, trans-gender status, age, sexual orientation, religion or belief, marital status, civil partnership status, race, color, nationality, national origins, ethnic origin or disability. Furthermore, the Professional Guard Services Ltd will monitor the composition of the workforce and introduce positive action if it appears that this policy is not fully effective. Employees are required to conduct themselves in a way that always promotes equal opportunities. Good practice will be promoted by senior management and employees will be provided with relevant training. Employees who feel they have been discriminated against or suffered harassment should speak to a member of management immediately.

12. Employees may seek to take up separate employment with another employer or pursue outside business interests while still remaining employed by the Professional Guard Services Ltd. Although the Professional Guard Services Ltd has no desire to unreasonably restrict an employee's external activities, it must seek to protect its own interests and those of all its employees. Employees will not be permitted to undertake business activities or other work where the Professional Guard Services Ltd considers that this is incompatible with its interests and, in any event, unless employees have obtained prior written authorization from senior management.

13. The Professional Guard Services Ltd is committed to conserving the Earth's resources and to do what it can to reduce any negative effects it has on the environment. Employees are required to use the Professional Guard Services Ltd's equipment and materials wisely and reduce wastage where possible. Employees can play a positive role in helping the environment by recycling all non-confidential waste, using printers and photocopiers with care, and switching off electrical equipment which is not in use.

Find Us at:

www.pgssecurityfm.co.uk
info@pgssecurityfm.co.uk

Contact Us at:

(+44) 333-240-6307

Located At:

Challenge House Business Center
616 Mitcham Road, Croydon CR0 3AA